Center for Sociocultural Sport and Olympic Research

Second Annual Conference

15-16 March, 2019

Hosts

Founded in 2014, the Center for Sociocultural Sport and Olympic Research (CSSOR) at California State University, Fullerton has been recognized as an International Olympic Studies Centre by both the International Olympic Committee's Olympic Studies Centre and the United States Olympic Committee for its quality and commitment to research and academic activities.

Its mission is to promote education and research concerning sport and the Olympic Games in their broadest cultural, social and political dimensions.

The goal of the center is widespread support and sharing of research and education that takes sport seriously and sincerely. By hosting conferences, community events, and supporting curricula on sport and the Olympic Movement, CSSOR hopes to further our understanding of these enduring human enterprises. In addition to this conference, CSSOR continues to pursue new projects, funding opportunities, and innovative research through visiting professorships and collaborative activities with scholars from around the world.

CSSOR Distinguished Scholar Award

The Distinguished Scholar Award was established in 2015 to annually recognize one individual for their significant research contributions to the sociocultural understanding of sport. Recipients are nominated and selected by CSSOR Directors based on their overall body of scholarship.

Past recipients:

2015 Paul Dimeo, University of Stirling

2016 Cheryl Cooky, Purdue University

2017 John MacAloon, University of Chicago

2018 Andrew Zimbalist, Smith College

2019 Dave Wiggins, George Mason University

CSSOR Distinguished Leadership Award

The Distinguished Leadership Award was established in 2018 to recognize outstanding leaders who have dedicated themselves to help sport achieve its highest ideals. Recipients are nominated and selected by CSSOR Directors.

Past recipients:

2018 Anita DeFrantz, Vice President of the International Olympic Committee

2019 Harry Edwards, Civil Rights Activist and Professor at University of California, Berkeley

2019 Distinguished Award Recipients

Harry Edwards, CSSOR Distinguished Leadership Award

Receiving the 2019 CSSOR Distinguished Leadership Award, professor and civic activist Harry Edwards has devoted 50 years to and activism for racial inclusion in sport. Edwards has written extensively on the connections between race, sport and society. He is the author of “The Struggle That Must Be: An Autobiography,” “The Sociology of Sports,” “The Revolt of the Black Athlete,” and countless articles on race, sports, and the sociology of sport in books, academic and popular press. Considered a leading authority on the sociology of sports and diversity, Edwards has appeared on nationally syndicated television shows and documentaries while traveling extensively to perform public engagements. He has been the recipient of several awards and honorary doctorate degrees.

David Wiggins, CSSOR Distinguished Scholar Award

Delivering the 2019 CSSOR Distinguished Scholarship address, Dave Wiggins has published scholarly articles, book chapters, and several books on the history of sport, particularly as it relates to the involvement of African American participation in sport and physical activity. His most recent book is More than a Game: A History of the African American Experience in Sport (2018). Wiggins is also a three-time recipient of the Research Writing Award for outstanding scholarship from Research Quarterly for Exercise and Sport, a Fellow of the Research Consortium of the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance, Active Fellow in the National Academy of Kinesiology, Editor of the Sport, Culture, and Society Series of The University of Arkansas Press, and currently President-Elect of the North American Society for Sport History.

"Toby Rider, Kevin Witherspoon, and their collaborators have crafted a focused, thoughtful, and illuminating set of essays that dissect sport's Cold War arena. They reveal just how intensely the US and the USSR waged the Cold War in a fifth dimension—not via military alliances, economic pacts, political doctrines, or global bodies like the IMF—but via sport. It's history at its best—explaining sport's past while showing how that past continues to affect sport today."
—Rob Ruck

"An impressive collection that focuses on a variety of themes and issues, Rider and Witherspoon's book smartly investigates how the Cold War influenced peoples' experience with sport, and how sport was used to promote Cold War agendas. Anyone who studies the topic should read this engaging volume."
—Chris Elzey
